Learning Disability Wales Annual Conference 2025

Exhibiting

Thursday 6 November – Llandudno Junction, North Wales

Thursday 13 November – Swansea, South Wales

About our annual conference

Learning Disability Wales's annual conference is not like other conferences. It stands out from the crowd as an example of inclusivity and accessibility. We strive to make sure our event is friendly and welcoming to all, whether you have a learning disability or not.

Many of our speakers and workshop leaders are experts by their own experiences of having a learning disability, we truly believe that everyone benefits from taking this approach.

Each year the conference brings together people with a learning disability and professionals in the health and social care sector, key decision makers in local authorities, support providers, voluntary organisations, and commissioners.

My home matters will look at where people with a learning disability live, the choices they have within their homes, and what people are doing to make Wales a better place for people with a learning disability to live, learn, love and work. You can be part of this unique event.

How you can benefit

Supporting our conference through exhibiting gives you the opportunity to reach and influence people and organisations in the learning disability community in Wales, it can also help you to:

- Increase your organisation's visibility
- Target organisations in this area in a cost-effective way
- Find new clients, partners, and customers
- Increase your share of the non-profit market
- Build relationships with other voluntary sector organisations
- Show your commitment to a strong non-profit sector

Exhibiting Costs

£400 + VAT per day – Standard

£250 + VAT per day – Concession

As an exhibitor at the event, you will get:

- Exhibition space in a prime location
- 2 places for staff at your exhibition stand who can attend the conference as full delegates or the opportunity to donate the places
- Your logo and organisation details to appear within Conference handbook
- Opportunity to display your pop-up banner at event reception
- 6 foot table provided
- WiFi and electricity supply available
- Lunch and refreshments included

Delegates will be able to visit your stand during the registration period, morning and afternoon breaks as well as over lunch. We will make sure everyone knows how much we appreciate your support by acknowledging your organisation as an exhibitor in any press coverage and from the event chair during the event.

You can ensure that we are able to offer the lowest possible prices for people who have a learning disability to attend this conference through exhibiting.
