

Ovarian Cancer

Signs to look out for

Bloating

Your tummy feels swollen or full of wind and it does not go away.

Eating

You do not feel like eating and feel full quickly when you eat.

Abdominal

You have pain in your tummy or between your hips most days.

Toilet

You need to pee more often. Or you have changes in how often you poo.

Ovarian cancer is a disease. It happens when unhealthy cells grow in the ovaries. Ovaries are small parts inside a woman's body.

Ovarian cancer can make you very unwell. If these signs do not go away, see a doctor. Do not wait to get better on your own.

These signs are usually caused by something less serious. But it is still important to get checked. If you are worried, you can:

Call us on 0800 008 7054.

Visit our website
www.ovacome.org.uk.